BACHELOR HELD FOR MURDER OF
MICHIGAN GIRL

The Body Of Slain Girl Is Found Buried In A
Basement Today

Ludington, Mich., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The body of 17-year-old Evelyn Sanford, who disappeared last Saturday, was found buried in the basement of a vacant house in the rear of the home of Francis Nash in Prescott today. Nash was taken into custody for questioning yesterday.

Coroner Rupert Stevens of Mason county reported that the girl apparently had been assaulted and strangled.

The body was found at 12:15 P. M. by Corporal Colburn Mungler of the state police and Harold Pfeiffer, 20, of Manistee, one of the numerous volunteers who have been aiding in the search for the girl.

A spade at the bottom of outside steps leading to the basement led directly to the discovery. The girl's body had been buried in about 18 inches of sand. Part of her clothing had been torn off.

Near Victims Home

The vacant house is not far from the farm home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanford.

At the time the body was found, the state police, Sheriff's officers and volunteers were searching a swamp about half a mile distant, through which Miss Sanford was walking when seen Saturday night.

Corporal Mungler's visit to the vacant house was a part of a planned search of all unoccupied buildings, but he said that a "hunch" took him to the basement first.

Story Reported

Nash was arrested because of scratches on his face and because, state police said, he seemed to take little interest in the girl's disappearance and the search for her. He told officers during an extended questioning last night that his face was scratched by flying chips as he was chopping wood and later said that it was rubbed by branches of a tree. Today one of his alibi witnesses, police said, broke down and admitted that he had told a story dictated by Nash.

The suspect, who is about 32 years old, is a bachelor and lived alone.

He was held incommunicado this afternoon in the county jail at Manistee. Officers had not told him of the finding of the body. Police planned to take him from the jail later this afternoon, but they could not reveal where they intended to go.

SIX ROCHELLE-
ROCKFORD "Q"
TRAINS TO QUIT

Will Be Replaced By Bus Service Under
New Arrangement

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Motor buses have forced six more passenger trains of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad into retirement, the Illinois Commerce Commission announced today in authorizing substitutions on the line between Rockford and Rochelle.

Trains discontinued were numbered 3, 5, 7, 6, 8 and 10 between Rockford and Rochelle and served Camp Grant, New Milford, Davis Junction, Holcomb and Kings. Motor buses will be operated by the Burlington Transportation Company, a subsidiary of the railroad, at an annual saving, it was calculated, of $11,000.

Under the new arrangement, the company proposes to operate one passenger train daily in each direction except Sunday, and three motor vehicles in each direction daily. Buses will operate at approximately the same times at which trains now run so that there will be no delay in the mails and so that through passengers will be enabled still to make connections for through trains at Rockford and at Rochelle.

Objections of the Blue Motor Coach Lines to issuance of the certificate to the Burlington Company, were dismissed.

Girl Will Outline
Plan To Get Rich

"How to Get Rich and Stay Rich Forever" is the subject for tonight at the Paul Rader tabernacle in Assembly Park. Miss Dorothy Kunzman "girl preacher" will outline her plan.

The crowds are increasing both in numbers and interest.

Tonight Raymond Bjork, the "boy singer" will sing a solo and Fred Cheney a citizen of Dixon, will tell the story of his conversion as the result of a radio message by Paul Rader less than two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Cheney and two children were all converted at that time by radio message.

Tonight promises to be an unusually interesting meeting with an unusual subject by an unusual evangelist.

Come and hear the important announcements of the season's "coming attractions."

Next Leader Of House Democrats

HON. JOHN P. DEVINE

(Story on Page 10)
Representative John P. Devine of this city, for many years a power in the Illinois House of Representatives and the state's Democracy, is one of the leading candidates for the party leader in the House, which would mean in case the Democrats secured control of that branch of the General Assembly, he would become Speaker.

HOOVER'S WORK
IN DEPRESSION IS COMMENDED

William Allen White, the Veteran Editor, Expresses Views

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE
(In an article in a recent issue of his paper, the Emporia (Kas.) Gazette, Mr. White reviewed President Hoover's efforts to combat the depression. The article is here reprinted in full.)

The passage of the home loan bill completes President Hoover's program for financial stabilization. This program is the President's own program.

He and his advisers, in and out of government, early last year decided that this depression was part of a worldwide phase of after-war re-adjustment in civilization. The destruction of men and the annihilation of property in the war, following by wildly inflated values, the war's political realignments of European boundaries, and the war's devastation in the hearts and minds of men, created conditions which made a crash inevitable across the whole of Christendom.

So the depression came through Europe and North and South America and stirred up anarchy and unrest in the far east. To the President it seemed that America was losing credit faster than she was losing anything else. There was an incidental drain of gold, but the loss of credit, to the President, seemed to be stagnating America. So he built his program upon the thesis that if credit could be re-established the calamity that threatened could be averted; otherwise we were faced with a long series of bank failures, which would

NEW PLANS FOR NORTH GALENA
PAVING VOTED

State To Build Cement
Strip Through Middle Of Street

As a result of continued opposition to the installation of two improvements this summer on streets of the city over which state highway routes pass, the Board of Local Improvements of the city council last evening voted unanimously to abandon both projects. No hearing was held on either the North Galena avenue or East Second street proposals. After the meeting of the council Herbert Morris, representing north side property owners, presented and filed a petition with the Board of Local Improvements which strongly opposed the north side improvement. The petition stated that the present paving was in good condition and that the improvement would prove beneficial only to the motoring public and would not serve to benefit the property, also outlining other objections to the paving.

At the close of the meeting of the Board, the members met and conferred with property owners along the proposed North Galena avenue improvements and a satisfactory agreement was reached for a different program to be completed this summer. The city has agreed to stand one half the expense of the improvement after the State Department of Public Works and Buildings builds a 20-foot cement slab in the center of the street. Under the new plan, the city will use the present brick, which will be raised to the proper grade and be treated to an inch coating of a tarva substance. Certain storm drain changes are also to be made.

More Land For Parks

At the council session, Commissioner Brooks opposed the payment of several claims which were presented among the monthly bills, but the other members of the commission voted for their allowance. A resolution providing that the land lying along Rock River from Artesian Place east of Ravine avenue and north of East River street be turned over to the Park Board was favorably acted upon by four members of the council, Commissioner Brooks opposing.

The report of City Attorney Martin J. Gannon, which related to the construction of a private sewer along Harrison avenue by Boyd Stewart, against which property owners in that neighborhood objected at the council meeting one week ago, was read. The report stated that three sections of the city ordinance had been violated by the action and that the assessment for the sewer had not been paid to the city. The council voted to forward a copy of the City Attorney's findings and recommendations, together with a statement requiring the payment of the regular assessment.

Meanwhile, the last of the 15 men arrested as radicals in the general roundup was released and the police court trial was begun of eight persons apprehended in an attempt to picket the White House ten days ago.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3.—(AP)—After conferring with leaders of the bonus expeditionary force, Mayor Eddie McCloskey said today he would obtain trucks tomorrow morning to carry the bonus seeking veterans from their camp here.

McCloskey declined to add anything to the statement, but said he would have more to say later. Neither he nor the veterans (Continued on Page 2)

Alky Runner Enters
Guilty Plea Today

James Moore, alias James Ryan of Westville, Ill., appeared before Judge Leach in the County Court this morning for trial on an information charging possession and transportation of 720 gallons of alcohol, for which he was arrested two weeks ago two miles north of Compton on state highway, route 70 by deputies from the Sheriff's office. Attorney Brooks and Jones filed a motion to impound and suppress the evidence which was overruled by the court.

The jury had been recalled for the trial, but the defendant pleaded guilty to the information when motions and affidavits of his attorneys had been overruled by the court. Judge Leach ordered that Moore be assessed a fine of $1,000 on the first count charging possession and that he remain confined at the state work farm until the fine and costs are fully paid. On the second count, Moore was sentenced to serve 120 days at the state farm.

Rock Falls Youth
Robbed By Negroes

Tuscola, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two Negroes were held in Douglas county jail today, charged with robbing Dale W. Keims, 18, of Rock Falls, of his clothes and 50 cents and tying him to a fence post. They said they were Hal Armstrong of Jackson, Mich., and William Hawkins of St. Louis. Keims was enroute to Salina, Kansas, on an Illinois Central freight train, together with the Negroes. Two 13-year-old boys who hopped the train at Arcola were frightened away and spread the alarm which liberated Keims.

Business Looking Up Says Com. Dept.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Business, says the Commerce Department, is looking up.

This does it summarize improved bond prices, increases in what a number of important commodities bring, an ending of foreign gold withdrawals and a stop in stock market liquidations.

In July, the Department says, these things among others "contributed to an improvement in sentiment," that improvement necessary to a full restoration. The favorable factors were considered especially interesting since they followed further recessions in June.

Miss Eda Shoemaker
Died Last Evening

Miss Eda Shoemaker, 76, long resident of Dixon, and for many years a nurse in this vicinity, passed away last evening at 5:15 at her home near Eldora. She was born in Dixon, July 1, 1856 and had lived in this community practically the entire 72 years of her life. One brother residing in Florida and several more distant relatives and a host of friends survive her. Funeral services will be conducted from the Staples mortuary Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Gilbert Stansell officiating. Interment will be in the March cemetery east of Dixon.

LOVE TRIANGLE
BARED IN ARMY
FLIER'S TRIAL

Aviator Admits Jealousy
Between Two
Of Her Suitors

Miami, Fla., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flier and former aviation partner of Captain W. N. Lancaster, testified at the former British Army aviator's murder trial today that Lancaster had contemplated suicide in order that she and Haden Clarke, her fiancé, might receive $100,000 from his insurance policy on their wedding day.

Called as a witness for the prosecution in its efforts to prove Captain Lancaster killed Clarke, a young victim, in a love triangle, the aviatrix said the men quarreled over her affections at dinner the night before Clarke was shot at her home. They settled their differences, however, she said, after Clarke admitted Lancaster's accusation that he had been unfaithful to the former Army flier in making love to her.

Her voice broke as she spoke of locking the door of her room upon retiring that night.

"Why did you lock the door?" State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne asked.

"Because Haden told me he did not want that—Lancaster to come to my room and talk me out of our marriage plans," she responded.

BULLETIN

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Mayor of Johnstown and leaders of the bonus expedition visited the bonus seeking veterans' camp today to tell them they must move on.

Doak Carter, the veterans' chief of staff, told the veterans he has resigned.

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Plans for a sweeping investigation of the bonus army riots were pushed forward today with Attorney General Mitchell receiving a mass of data intended for presentation to the grand jury.

The information was given the Attorney General a short while after a continuance until tomorrow had been ordered in the investigation by the District of Columbia jury. A number of subpoenas were served on witnesses to testify.

Meanwhile, the last of the 15 men arrested as radicals in the general roundup was released and the police court trial was begun of eight persons apprehended in an attempt to picket the White House ten days ago.

ABANDONED CAR HERE

A Jordan sedan bearing Illinois license plates issued to Herman S. Field, 4844 Kenmore avenue, Chicago, was abandoned yesterday morning on Madison avenue near Ninth street. Police were notified about noon yesterday and started an investigation. The sedan was stolen from Chicago at an early hour yesterday morning and driven to this city, then abandoned.

FOUR AWARDS CLAIMED

Four more of the Dixon Loyalty League members' awards for July were claimed today, leaving but two to be called for. Claimants today were: Albert Peterson and Neal Weatherhead, $25 worth of groceries each; Mrs. James Boyer, $20 worth of auto tires or accessories; Charles Albright, $10 worth of gasoline or motor oil.

DIXON GIRL HELD

Estelle Boucher, residing west of Dixon on the River road, is being held in custody by Phoenix, Ariz., authorities according to information contained in a telegram received by County Judge Leach this morning. M. B. Pitts, Juvenile Probation Officer of Phoenix, wired Judge Leach stating that Estelle Boucher, alias Mary Arnette, was being detained at that place while an investigation was being conducted.

The Boucher girl was released from the state training school for girls at Geneva a few weeks ago and returned to this city. She is said to have left Dixon about a week ago to hitch-hike to California.

Great Crowd Here
On Monday Evening

About 200 cars and trucks representing Dixon Loyalty League members participated in the parade Monday evening, which attracted the largest crowd to Dixon that has assembled since the Centennial celebration. Streets around the court house square, where Mayor Dixon made a short address, were packed solidly with automobiles long before the parade arrived.

Members of the league entered the pleasure cars, many of which were neatly decorated in the parade, while business houses were represented by the delivery trucks. The monthly event has become known throughout northern Illinois and visitors were present Monday evening from cities and villages many miles distant from Dixon, the visitors manifesting interest in the league's campaign equal to that of the local residents.

OUTFIELDER OUT

LYNN, Mass.—Nicholas Calos, 12, was playing the outfield when one of the opposing batters knocked out a long fly over his head. The youth has been in custody of the county officers on previous occasions. Judge Leach recommended that the mother consider the actions of her son and report to the court her final decision as to the sentence to be meted out in his latest offense.

Indiana Governor Has Ordered Guardsmen
To Vigo County

BULLETIN.

Indianapolis, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Gov. Harry G. Leslie today ordered Indiana National Guard troops into Vigo county where union pickets have besieged sixty non-union miners in the Dixie Bee shaft.

The decision to send National Guardsmen to the mine region was reached following conferences this morning with several advisers.

The Governor said he had ordered troops into the mine field because the situation "has gotten beyond the control of anyone but the state."

The troops to be sent into Vigo county, the Governor said, will be picked men of experience.

A force of 1,000 will be ordered out. Adjutant General Paul E. Tombaugh received the order from the Governor at 12:45 P. M. and said the first men would be on the way by 1 o'clock.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The siege of the Dixie Bee mine in southern Vigo county was continued today with desultory firing.

Sixty non-union workmen hemmed in by a ring of union pickets exchanged bursts of fire at daybreak and then the attackers and defenders settled down to cautious sniping tactics.

The siege began late yesterday. One picket has been killed and four wounded. Four defenders of the mine have been wounded. The latter are still at the shaft without medical attention. Pickets last

10,000 SOLDIERS
WILL MOVE INTO CAMP SATURDAY

Thirty-third Division
Will Occupy Camp
Grant Week End

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The annual field training period of the 33rd Division, the Illinois National Guard unit, began today when advance "cleanup squads" entrained from half a hundred cities for Camp Grant.

These details have the arduous job of preparing camp for the remainder of the Division, which will arrive Saturday for a 15-day stay. The advance details numbered about 300, but by Saturday night there will be about 10,000 men in the camp. The 202nd Coast Artillery is already in camp at Port Barran, Fla., where there is a range on which anti-aircraft guns may be fired. The remainder of the artillery will train at Camp Grant, though without artillery practice, for there is no range there.

Gen. Keehn In Command

Major General Roy D. Keehn, commanding the 33rd, will be in charge of the encampment. Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity will command the 66th brigade of infantry for the last time; he retires soon. The 65th brigade, composed of two downstate regiments, will be under Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, last year Colonel commanding the 124th Field Artillery, but named to succeed Brig. Gen. Dillar S. Myer when the latter left the 65th brigade to become division executive.

Brig. Gen. Frank R. Schwengel will command the 58th artillery brigade.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson will review the troops Saturday, Aug. 13. This is an innovation, as Governor's Day has always previously been held on the last Thursday of the camp period. Troop commanders, however, considered that this interfered too much with training and asked that it be held Saturday since that day is used largely for inspections.

Mother To Decide
Youth's Sentence

BULLETIN
Melville Appelman, 20-year-old Amboy youth, was released from the county jail this afternoon at 2 o'clock, where he had been held in default of bonds in the sum of $1,000. His mother came to Dixon and asked for his release which was granted.

Melville Appelman, aged 20, was still a prisoner in the county jail today where he is held in default of bond in the sum of $1,000. Appelman's parole in the County Court expired this spring and he was taken in custody by Officer Paul Reiley of the Amboy police department Monday evening, following a quarrel with his mother, Mrs. Adeline Appelman, who for several years has conducted the telephone office at Amboy.

Young Appelman was said to have struck his mother when she refused to permit him to use the family car, while he was in an allegedly intoxicated condition. The youth has been in custody of the county officers on previous occasions. Judge Leach recommended that the mother consider the actions of her son and report to the court her final decision as to the sentence to be meted out in his latest offense.

Famous Hoost
Of Grandy Died
At Home Last Eve

He Was Famous Host Of
Grand Detour Hotel
Quarter Century

CHAS. A. SHEFFIELD

Popular Rock River valley resident, for a quarter of a century "mine host" at the Sheffield hotel in Grand Detour, which was famous throughout the midwest, died very suddenly at his home in Grand Detour at about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. He had been under the care of a physician for a number of years, but his death was entirely unexpected.

Mr. Sheffield, known to his countless friends as "Sheff", had been in failing health for a long time and his family knew that his condition was not good, but his death coming so suddenly, was a great shock to his wife and other relatives. He had apparently felt well all day, had eaten normally and was in his usual good spirits. At 7:30 he got up from his chair in the living room and walked to a bedroom and his step was firm and he gave no indication of anything being wrong, but he had been in the room only long enough to pull on the electric light when Mrs. Sheffield heard him fall and she rushed to his aid. He died almost instantly.

Mr. Sheffield had been under the care of a physician for a number of years. He made frequent visits to Dixon and his progress on the downtown sidewalks was a steady procession of handshakes and friendly greetings.

Charles A. Sheffield was born in Grand Detour, in the yellow brick house now housing the Sunset Tea Room, in 1862, a year after his parents, Amos Austin and Elizabeth P. Sheffield had moved to the historic village. He is survived by his widow and a sister, Mrs. Dr. Pankhurst and two brothers, Eugene and Amos Ezekiah of Grand Detour and a brother Mark of New Berlin, N. Y.

Ran Famous Hotel

For 25 years Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield operated the Sheffield hotel, a hostelry famous all over the country for its delicious food and its quiet, homelike atmosphere. The Sheffield hotel was a big factor in spreading the fame of Grand Detour as a summer resort and great numbers of art students made annual pilgrimages to the beautiful village. Famous people came from far places to enjoy the generous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield.

Mr. Sheffield was a member of the Masons, the Elks and the Woodmen.

Kansas Remains
In "Dry" Column

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 3.—(AP)—It's still dry Kansas after yesterday's primary—in which wet candidates sought the favor of voters of the pioneer prohibition state for the first time in two decades.

While prohibition was not the major issue, taking a supporting role to the more lively questions of taxation, economy in government and other matters that affect the pocketbook, it was clearly demonstrated that Kansas voters haven't changed their views on liquor.

Returns today revealed the re-nomination of Senator George McGill and Governor Harry H. Woodruff by the Democrats.

Ben S. Paulsen, Independence banker and former Governor, took a 10,000-vote lead early in his race with Joe H. Morser for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

Alfred M. Landon, old man and fellow townsman of Senator Paulsen, outran a field of three for the right to name Governor Woodruff in November.

Senator McGill, Paulsen and Landon are listed as dry.

Airplane Load Of Ice Cream In City

The first shipment of ice cream to reach Dixon by air stopped at the Dixon Municipal airport yesterday afternoon at 3:15 in the Jack Frost Waco cabin plane from Chicago, enroute to Omaha. Page J. Thibodeaux, an official of the Jack Frost Ice Cream Co. Stores Inc., of Chicago was the passenger in the plane with about an hour's flight to the west coast.

The Jack Frost plane is equipped with a complete refrigerating unit and in this is packed the product of the company. The plane has just returned from an extended trip along the east coast and, returning to Chicago tomorrow, will be made ready for a flight to the west coast. Both the pilot and his passenger were enthusiastic in their praise of Dixon's airport and the Rock river valley as viewed from the air.

Am. Legion Picnic
Sunday Proved Most Delightful Affair

The picnic held at Lowell Park Sunday, sponsored by Dixon Post of the American Legion and its Auxiliary was very largely attended and proved a delightful affair. More than fifty members and their families enjoyed the bountiful dinner. There was plenty of ice cream and lemonade for all, which was supplied by the Legion "boys," and to which the children especially did ample justice.

After dinner a ball team was soon organized from the Legion and Auxiliary members, and the ladies proved to be nearly as good players as the men. Many of the children enjoyed the bathing beach, while the older people spent the afternoon in social chat.

Some Practical
Household Hints

A few drops of lemon juice will improve the flavor of apple sauce. If apples have a flat taste it will be considerably improved by this addition.
Cinnamon and lemon added to to prunes take away the monotony of the flavor and add interest.
Grass clippers with long handles will save your knees when you are working among the shrubbery, flowers or vegetables in your garden.
Limeoleum does not have to be scrubbed so often if varnished or shellacked, then waxed.
Sugar that gets lumpy, will soften if it is kept in the bread box.
If nutmeats aren't crisp, put them in the oven for a few minutes. Wafers that have wilted in the heat will regain their crispness if they are heated, too.

G. A. R. Circle Held
Meeting on Monday

The G. A. R. Circle, No. 73, held their regular meeting Monday afternoon in G. A. R. hall, with a good attendance of officers and members. Comrade Richardson was also present and was escorted to the President's station and was given the honors of the Circle. He also favored the Circle with an interesting talk.
Plans were made by the Circle members to hold their annual picnic Wednesday, August 10th, at the summer cottage of the secretary, Florence Cullen, on Route 2. All desiring to attend or those who wish to donate their cars, will kindly telephone the president, Y1336. A number of distinguished guests from out of town are expected to be in attendance.
The meeting closed in regular form to meet again Monday, Aug. 15th.

2-3 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
Mix ingredients and spread on dough. Work quickly so mixture will not become too thin.
Hard Sauce
(For steamed or baked puddings)
6 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons hot cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1-8 teaspoon cinnamon
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
Mix ingredients and let stand 5 minutes. Beat until creamy. Roughly pile in small glass dish. Chill until ready to serve.

Winston Gullickson
Kathryn Peura Wed

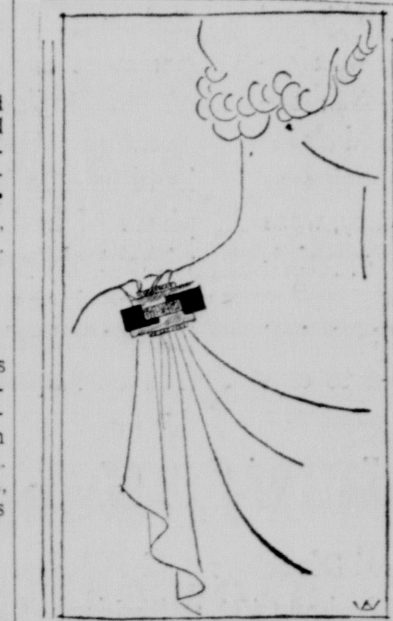

The following article clipped from the DeKalb Chronicle of Saturday, July 30th, is of much interest here as Winston Gullickson has many friends here who wish him and his bride every happiness.
Friends as well as relatives were surprised yesterday afternoon when Kathryn Peura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Peura, and Winston Gullickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Gullickson, announced that they had been married during the afternoon.

The popular young couple accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Avid Peura, drove to Geneva during the afternoon and were married by Rev. Bell. They returned to DeKalb early last evening and announced the event of the afternoon.
Mr. Gullickson is well known in DeKalb having graduated from the DeKalb Township high school and being one of the valued employees at the Yarnall Cafe. Mr. Gullickson is a resident of DeKalb his entire life, has attended the schools of this city and is conducting the Photo Craft studio of this city.
A wedding trip to St. Paul, Minn., with a return trip by way of Madison, and The Dells is being planned for next week. For the present the couple will make a stay at the Gullickson home on East Lincoln Highway.
The many friends of the young couple extend the sincerest good wishes.

Two Hundred 4-H Club Girls Here

About 200 4-H club girls, their supervisors and friends from this part of the state are attending the district contests being held at the South Central school building in this city today, from which will be picked champions to compete in sewing, designing, canning and health contests at the state fair at Springfield. Several ladies connected with the University of Illinois are in charge of the contests, which are sponsored by the various county Home Bureaus of the district.

Virginia-Born Nancy Astor Helps
Wales Meet British Law-Makers

London —(AP)— When the Prince of Wales wanted to meet the lesser known members of the British parliament he went to an American born woman for help.
Lady Astor, M. P. for Plymouth and native of Virginia, was acquainted with the royal desire, and forthwith gave a party to which were asked those M. P.'s who also serve, although they only stand and wait.
The prince, of course, was asked too, to the town house of the Astors in St. James' Square; he came and circulated freely among M. P. guests, who were drawn from all parties.

Picnic Past Matrons'
Club Happy Affair

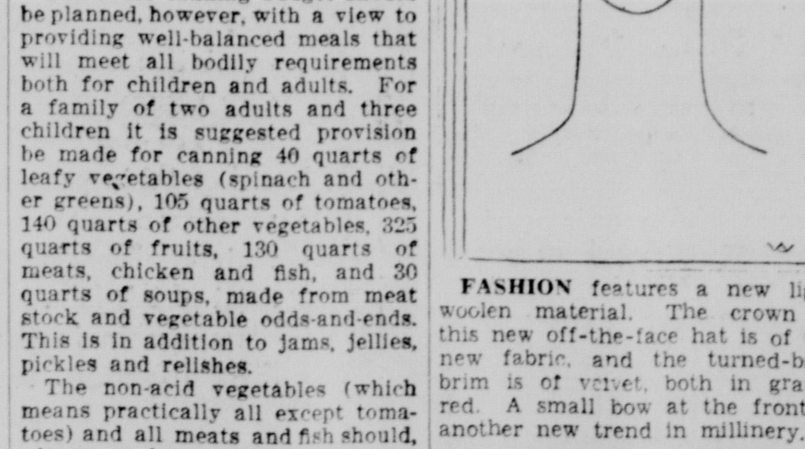

The Past Matrons Club of the Order of the Eastern Star and their husbands enjoyed a picnic supper last evening at Masonic Temple, which proved a most enjoyable affair, and which was attended by thirty-five. It had been intended to hold the picnic at the Glen Coe cottage but rain prevented, and it was held at the Temple, instead.

A delicious picnic supper was enjoyed by everyone present, and afterward all joined in a bridge game.
Mrs. Will Ware was presented the favor for high honors for the ladies and Mrs. Harry Quick received the consolation favor. Frank Kreim received the favor for high honors for the gentlemen and Mark Brown received the consolation favor.
The entire evening proved one of great pleasure to all attending.

Entertained Y.P.M.C.
At Ward Hall Home

On Monday evening, August 1, Mrs. Ward Hall and Miss Ruth Smith delightfully entertained the Young People's Missionary Circle of the Christian church at the home of Mrs. Hall, East McKinney street.
The meeting was called to order by the president, Lucille Rhodes, following which Mrs. Hall pronounced the invocation. The World Fellowship Hymn was sung by every one present. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and approved.
The offering was taken and prayer of thanks given by Miss Olive Boos.

en because she feels her yawning jars and tins are being robbed thereby! Certainly no one should be deprived of necessary food while it is fresh in order to eat it canned later on. What is required in these live-at-home days is that, instead of canning whatever surplus happens to be available, a definite canning budget should be made out based on the family's yearly needs. Plant the garden in the spring and early summer, advises the National School of Pressure Cooking, with the requirements of this budget clearly in mind. No set rules may be given for making this budget, nor is it possible to say just how much must be planted to yield the necessary products, since so much depends on climate, soil, and quality of the seed.
The home canning budget should be planned, however, with a view to providing well-balanced meals that will meet all bodily requirements both for children and adults. For a family of two adults and three children it is suggested provision be made for canning 40 quarts of leafy vegetables (spinach and other greens), 105 quarts of tomatoes, 140 quarts of other vegetables, 325 quarts of fruits, 130 quarts of meats, chicken and fish, and 30 quarts of soups, made from meat stock and vegetable odds-and-ends. This is in addition to jams, jellies, pickles and relishes.
The non-acidic vegetables (which means practically all except tomatoes) and all meats and fish should, of course, be canned in the pressure cooker, the only safe method for such foods recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The high temperature obtainable by this method is essential to assure sterilizing harmful bacteria, especially that of botulism. The pressure cooker is also used successfully for canning fruits, using low pressure for a short period of processing.

MISS LOUISE BRACKEN
HONORED AT DINNER

Miss Virginia Blittorf of Sterling entertained a number of girl friends Monday evening at a dinner party in honor of Miss Louise Bracken of Polo, with whom she attended school at St. Mary's of the West.
A delicious dinner was served and on the dessert for the last course were tiny flags from different countries in Europe. After dinner the girls enjoyed moving pictures taken by the Blittorf family on their various trips in Europe and Alaska, which so delighted everyone that they were loath to see the reels come to an end.
Miss Virginia Blittorf then passed around tally cards and each girl finding the cabin and berth assigned to her, finished the evening playing bridge. Miss Margaret Peters was awarded head prize and Miss Genevieve Grenan consolation prize.

Greenville, S. C. —(AP)— Joe Jackson—old Shoeless Joe—is back in baseball again.

The former Chicago White Sox star, who was banished from organized baseball following the 1919 world series, is playing as often as he can find jobs now with the semi-professional outfits in Georgia and South Carolina.

In fair physical condition, although heavier and not so fast as in his palmy days, Joe still has a keen batting eye at 45 and makes life miserable for the small-town hurlers.

OUR UGLY CITIES.

A whole lot of reasons have been suggested to explain the prevalence of political corruption in American cities. But Professor George J. Cox of the fine arts faculty of Columbia University advanced a new one recently when he remarked that a lot of the corruption may be due to the fact that most American cities are so ugly.

Professor Cox expressed himself as follows:

"Here in this city (New York), with its utterly planless piling up of monster buildings, with its endless grids of bleak slums, its monotonous iteration of lifeless concrete, stone and steel, of sky signs and screaming advertisements, its eradication of the last vestige of spring and fall, its rooting up of trees and grass as though they were pests—all this denial of beauty destroys the essential roots of humanity."

And he asks why a man who grows up in such an atmosphere should be expected to develop a deep and intelligent interest in civic ethics.

There is a whole lot of good sense in his suggestion.

Most of our large cities are ugly, taken all in all. They may have moments of grandeur and splendor, certain aspects of loveliness and charm; but each one contains mile of dingy streets, unutterably dreary and strifing, each one contains block after block of buildings that are nothing less than eyesores, each one suffers because it was put together without the shadow of an aesthetic plan.

We have proceeded, in erecting our cities, on the theory that man can do without beauty, except incidentally; and we have made a very bad mistake. The man who grows up and spends his days among beautiful scenes is a different sort of man from the one who does not; his attitude toward life is different, his feeling for his own town is different. He is, in fact, a better citizen. He has a better life.

It is not at all far-fetched to suppose that at least a part of our notorious complacency in the presence of municipal corruption springs from the ugliness that surrounds us.

THE TRAGEDY OF TYPHOID MARY.

To most of us, "Typhoid Mary" is just a name out of medical history. It was a little bit surprising, the other day, to read that the woman on whom a generation of medics have fastened that name is still alive, an inmate of a cottage on North Brother Island, New York City.

Typhoid Mary has been there more than 17 years. She is in perfect health and she has committed no crime, but she is under detention and she probably will be to the end of her days.

She works in the laboratories of a city hospital on the island, takes all her meals by herself in her little cottage, and while she is not strictly a prisoner she is never allowed to get very far from the watchful eye of the city health department. Now and then she is permitted to go into the city for an afternoon, but she always returns in the evening.

There is something unspeakably tragic about this woman's case. Mary Mallon—that is her real name—has the misfortune to carry the germs of typhoid fever in her system, and although she has never had the disease herself at least 57 cases of it, several of them fatal, have been traced to her.

To permit her to have her liberty would be to loose a certain, devastating source of infection upon everyone with whom she came in contact. So she must live in a cottage on an island off Manhattan, a virtual prisoner, cut off from the freedom that makes life worth living. Was there ever a woman much more unfortunate?

This case, somehow, seems to symbolize the way in which the modern world has erected restrictions on individual liberty for the sake of the common good. Mary Mallon is the victim, not of wilful injustice, but of the new order of society which must, now and then, sacrifice one for the sake of many.

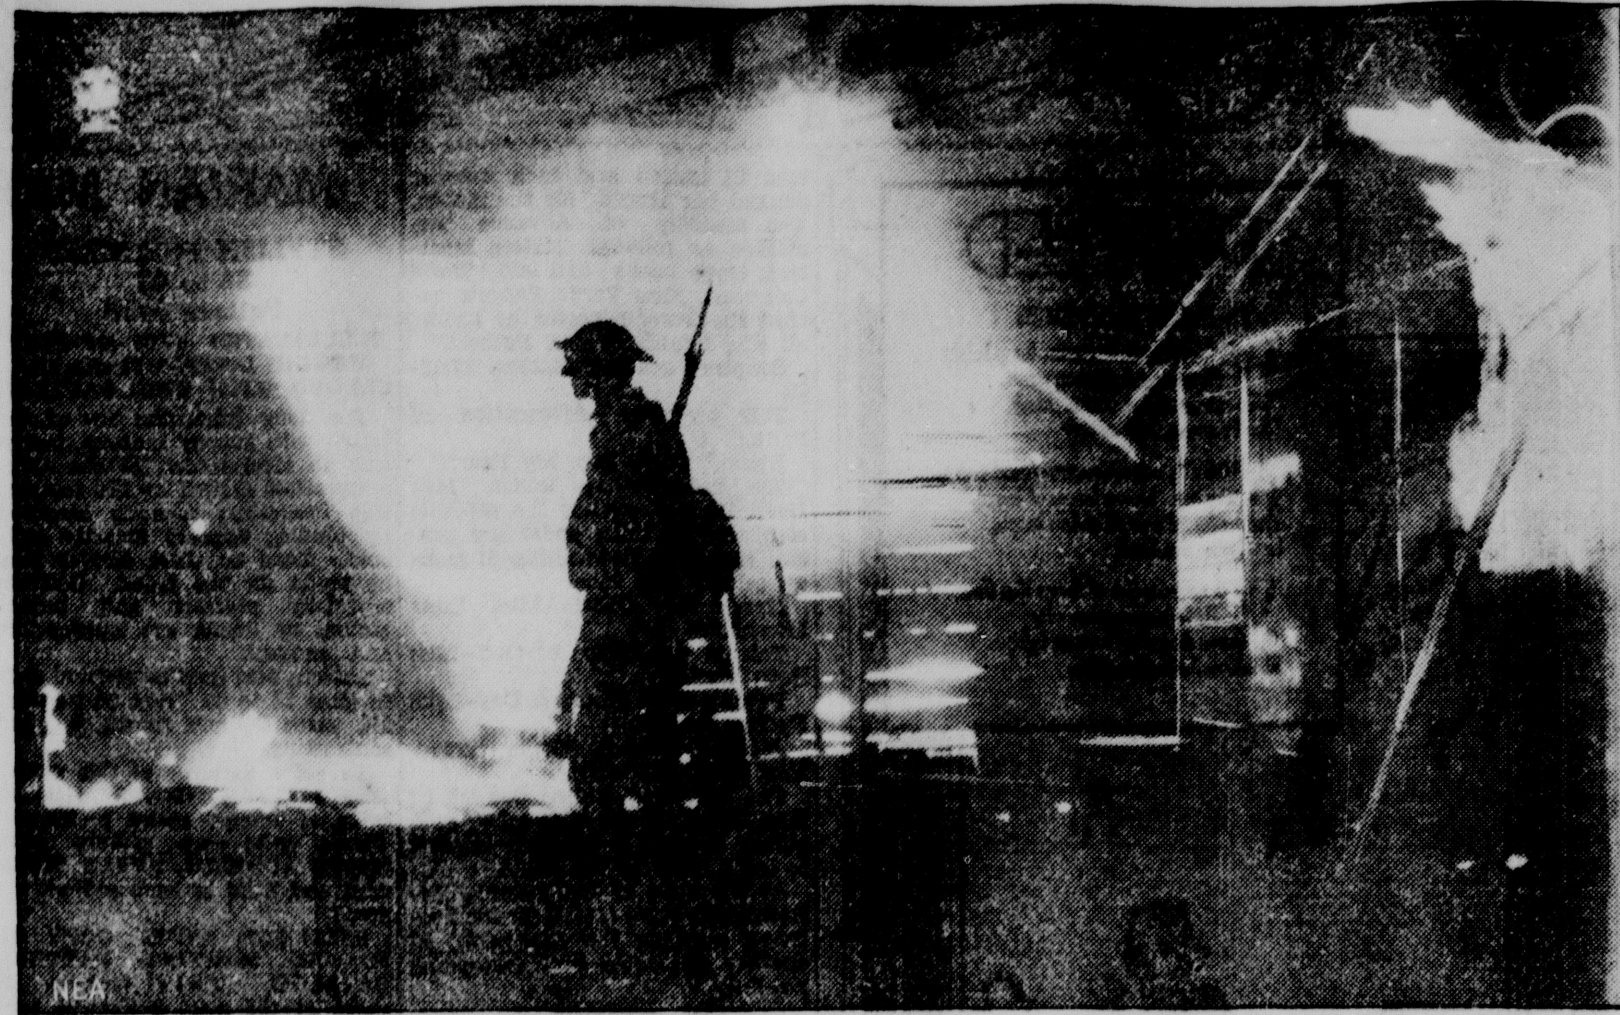

A NEW ANGLE ON THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAYS PROJECT.

It is interesting to read that one of the results of construction of the St. Lawrence seaway may be extension of railroad electrification on a huge scale. Recent dispatches indicate that the New York Central railroad may arrange to use some of the power generated by these away to electrify its main line all the way from New York City to Buffalo.

A good many years ago, when electric locomotives were first being developed, it was commonly reported that they would very soon out steam locomotives from railroads everywhere. So far, however, the steam locomotive is holding its own pretty well; for these big electrification programs are enormously costly to install, however many economies they may promise after they get into operation.

The New York Central, however, sees a new source of cheap and abundant electric power, and considers going ahead with the program on a grand scale. Railroad men and general public alike will watch with interest to see if this program is really to be put into effect.

BURNING SHACKS LIGHT VETS IN RETREAT FROM "WATERLOO"

Blazing shacks of the bonus camp on Anacostia flats, across the Anacostia river from Washington, made a flaming background for the retreating and defeated forces of the bonus army, following a pitched battle in the shadow of the United States capitol. A regular army sentry is shown silhouetted against the ruins after troops had routed the B. E. F. It was the last act of the engagement, which saw veterans gassed from their Pennsylvania avenue bivouac, driven across the bridge and then dispersed into the night, leaving one dead and a score wounded.

When Coppy saw the big, fat pig he jumped and then began to jig. "Oh, let me ride on that," he cried. "It won't toss me around."

"Of course the perky may move slow because his body is so low, but I am glad to have one that is built close to the ground."

"All right, hop on," the man replied. "I'm sure you'll have a dandy ride. Just hang on to the fat pig's ears and then you'll hold your seat."

So Coppy promptly climbed aboard. The other happy Tynmites roared. "My goodness, you look funny!" shouted Duncy. "It's a treat!"

"Oh, look! An elephant I've found," cried Windy. "He's high from the ground but I will try him, anyway. Who'll help me get in place?"

"I will," said Scouty. "I am used to giving Tynmites a boost. Then I will pick an animal and we will have a race."

The balloon man smiled and said, "I fear that you will find no year it works diligently as Canada's chief artery of commerce."

Then for seven months its rests, all but the lower 400 miles being closed by ice. Floods are almost unknown along the St. Lawrence. The Great Lakes act as impounding regulating reservoirs, and its own occasional lakelike expanses take up the excesses of its lower tributaries. The dikes at Montreal are needed only during the spring and fall when infrequent ice jams cause the river to overflow its normal banks.

Highest Tides Far from Sea
"The St. Lawrence, in its lower stages, is a tidal river, like the Hudson, but oddly enough its highest tides are at Orleans Island, 650 miles from the open ocean at Cabot Strait. At its mouth the range is only six feet, but at Orleans Island, below Quebec, the spread is 19 feet. Although has 18 1-2 feet of tide, although the water there is almost fresh."

"One of the widest of rivers, the St. Lawrence below Quebec is more like a broad bay or long lake. The stranger approaching from Europe must sail some distance up the St. Lawrence before he realizes that he is in a river at all. At Point des Monts both banks become visible for the first time, yet the river here is 40 miles across and very deep. At its mouth the St. Lawrence is more than 85 miles wide. Even at Saguenay, halfway between the Gulf and Quebec, it is still 20 miles across."

Legends of French Canada
"Historically, sentimentally and scenically the St. Lawrence is one of America's most famous and beloved streams. Long before English settlers had crossed the Alleghenies, French missionaries and fur traders pushed down the St. Lawrence and over the porches to the heart of North America. Today the tiny villages, white parish churches, and the green patchwork fields of the descendants of these French pioneers make the St. Lawrence Valley seem more like a part of Europe than America. Here is a land of legends—the Dripping Indian, the Phantom Priest, and the Ghost Ship."

The St. Lawrence, in fact, may be said to lead a very well-balanced life. Five months during the —far removed from busy Montreal Canada's largest city, which also shares the banks of the St. Lawrence.

"While vessels of any draft may ascend the St. Lawrence to Quebec the next 160 miles to Montreal are open to ocean steamers which do not draw more than 30 feet. The smaller ships may ascend the river to Lake Ontario by using a combination of short canals and open channels, but the locks are narrow and the current too swift for heavy commercial traffic in many places. This channel is 15 feet."

"With a 30-foot channel through out ocean liners could ascend the St. Lawrence to Lake Ontario, where the new Welland Canal of the same depth could carry them to Lake Erie and the other Great Lakes. Shipping direct by this route an exporter in Buffalo for instance would save more than 300 miles to Liverpool, in addition to the cost of barge or rail shipment to Atlantic coast ports."

Tomorrow—Head Nodding

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — If former Senator James W. Wadsworth "Jimmy Wadsworth" to everyone in Washington—succeeds in his effort to return to Congress as a member of the House he will find things vastly different from what they were when he left in 1927.

As a member of the house he would go to the bottom, just as any other new congressman. There is a possibility, too, that he would be a member of the minority party in the next Congress. That being true, then he would find himself about as far down in the congressional scheme as it is possible for him to be.

When he left the Senate after being defeated by the German-born Bob Wagner, Wadsworth was an important figure "on the hill." He held the seat formerly occupied by Elihu Root.

He was chairman of the com-

DAILY HEALTH

DIET AND PSORIASIS

Psoriasis, which affects the skin, giving rise to chronic scale patches, has been an enigma to the medical profession.

There is no definite knowledge as to its cause nor yet any established method for curing it.

There are many remedies available for the treatment of psoriasis, which will cause the scaling to diminish and the condition to become quiescent, but these are merely remedies, not cures.

Recently Professor Schamberg of the University of Pennsylvania brought forth renewed arguments in favor of a low protein diet in the treatment of psoriasis.

Professor Schamberg does not claim this treatment to be a cure, but he does maintain that his own clinical experiences and the experiences of others who have applied his method have demonstrated its worth.

The reasoning upon which he bases his treatment is somewhat as follows:

In psoriasis, the skin cells multiply rapidly. For this growth the cells require building material.

The building material required by these cells is protein.

A diet rich in protein is therefore prone to stimulate the skin cells which appear to be affected by a powerful growth impulse.

On the other hand, by keeping the patient on a low protein diet a condition is brought about in which no protein can be supplied

The Retreat From Washington

Here they go, the ragged, dejected bonus army, crossing the bridge from Washington, D. C., after U. S. troops had sacked Camp Marks Headed for Johnstown, Pa., the straggling bonusers planned to establish a new headquarters there on invitation of Mayor Ed McCloskey. Over the river, boys!

mittie on military affairs in the crucial post-war period, was prominently mentioned for the war post in the President's cabinet, but declined because he disliked being an executive.

FAMILY TRADITION—

Actually, "Jimmy" Wadsworth desire to re-enter national politics even as a member of the house, caused no great surprise to those who know him in the capital.

He has kept his home in the capital, out on Woodland Drive, in one of the most select parts of Washington. And as for seeking a seat in the House, he is breaking no family tradition or precedent. His father before him sat there for almost 10 full terms.

They still tell a story around here about Wadsworth and the time he was chairman of the military affairs in the Senate. It was right after the war, when there was much agitation for reducing the number of officers then in the army.

The house, insistent that the number be cut, raised a louder howl than did the Senate.

Wadsworth went to General A. Harbord, then deputy chief of the staff, and suggested that he have a study made to determine the minimum number of officers the army required.

CROSSED SIGNALS—

The study was made and the number set at 12,000. However, General Harbord was out of the capital the day it was completed, and it went to the desk of General Pershing.

Pershing knew nothing of the conversation between Wadsworth and Harbord. He merely saw the notation that the study was prepared for Senator Wadsworth. He was so impressed with it that he ordered a copy sent not only to Wadsworth, but to the chairman of the military affairs committee of the House as well.

That was what the House wanted. They chuckled in glee, and promptly cut the officer personnel to 12,000.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. —Luke 16:13.

Ever keep thy promise, cost what it may; this is to be "true as steel." —Charles Reade.

JUST A SLIP

Washington — Raymond Grallon of Alexandria, Va., drove his car into town to do some shopping. After he had made his purchases he got in the car and drove home. Police met him there and charged him with stealing a car. He was taken back to Washington, where he met Daniel Cave, the owner of the car. Raymond found he had parked next to Cave's car, which was identical with his and which could be started with his ignition key. All he had done was to get in the wrong car.

OLYMPICS ARE MAKING RECORD IN ATTENDANCE

Records Are Also Falling In Many Track, Field Events

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sport Writer
Los Angeles, Aug. 3.—(AP)—World athletics have not only "turned the corner" but galloped in full cry down the middle of the road on the basis of today's evidence that the greatest Olympic boom in history is now assured.

Within only three days, nearly 200,000 spectators have paid to see the assorted thrills of this international sport carnival. Of these 155,000 have witnessed the track and field events in the Olympic stadium. An additional 105,000 looked at the formal opening ceremonies.

Four years ago it took eight days at Amsterdam to attract 130,000 customers into the main stadium.

With only three of the eight days of track and field competition so far completed—today being the fourth—new Olympic records have been set in 11 of 15 events, four of which have not been completed.

East Runs To Cover
It may be the track, the climate the competition, or a combination of all three. Meanwhile the eastern "old guard" of American famous for its skepticism of "Pacific Coast standard time," has run to cover.

Americans no doubt would have liked to have had big Ben Eastman in his best event, the 800 meters, when the Olympic finalists toed the mark for yesterday's dramatic final. It is doubtful, however, whether the Stanford star at his peak could have beat Tom Hampton, the British teacher, who roared down the stretch to a new world record of 1:49.8 and a two-foot victory over gallant Alex Wilson of Canada and Notre Dame.

The rest of the record-cracking story pointed the way today to a pair of dazzling championship battles, to be run off in quick succession, first in the 110-meter high hurdles and then in the 200-meter dash. There were six record races in these two events alone yesterday.

Record Manhandled
The 200-meter Olympic record of 21.6 seconds, which had stood for 28 years, was positively manhandled. Toian and Metcalfe, the two American Negroes who expected to fight it out in the final, ran their quarter-final heats each in 21.5 seconds, for new Olympic marks, but Carlos Luti, Argentine sensation and Arthur Jonath, the hustling German, came right back to click off winning races in 21.4 each. Luti led the third American, George Simpson, and looked the part of a real contender.

America's trio of high hurdling aces looked ripe for a clean sweep as well as record-smashing final. Two of them cracked the Olympic record of 14.6 in yesterday's semi-finals. Jack Keller romped home in 14.5 seconds after which George Salina led his teammate, Percy Beard, in 14.4, also tying the world record.

Finn Favorite Beaten
Ralph Hill, the Oregon boy, stamped himself a real threat in the 5000 meters by running away from Lauri Lehtinen, young Finnish favorite, in the trials. Hill's time of 14:59 was not so impressive as the way he outspouted Lehtinen after the Finn challenged on the last lap. All three Americans including Dan Dean and Paul Rekers, qualified for the 5000 meters final, scheduled for Friday.

The American Negroes' contribution to the rapidly-mounting point score of the United States was emphasized again, when Edward Gordon of Iowa won the broad jump title with a leap of 25 feet 3 inches.

The track and field championship, meanwhile, is virtually all over but the shouting. The United States, with eight events concluded, has 81 points; Ireland next with 20, while Canada has 19, Finland 16, Great Britain 13, Poland and Germany 10 each, Sweden and Japan 7. Today's events figured to shoot the Yankee total well beyond the 100 mark.

Lee County Boy Now With Cubs To Aid Pitchers

The Chicago Cubs, needing another winning pitcher to help them overhaul the league-leading Pirates, recalled LeRoy Herrmann, above, husky right-hander, from their Los Angeles farm, in the Coast League. Herrmann, whose home is in Steward, is 24 years old, weighs 185 pounds and was with Los Angeles in 1931 when he won 20 games and lost 11. His record with the Angels this season was even better than that.

Fans To See Real Fights Tomorrow
By DON HILLIKER
When the six Rockford amateurs appear in the Crawford's Maple arena Thursday evening to battle the Dixon and Peoria boys a great opportunity to view some classy scrapping will be offered to fight enthusiasts.

Johnnie Becker of Peoria has already made himself a favorite with local fans after his tough meeting last week with Billy Davis, in the windup feature. Aaron Wade, another Peoria product is one of the smartest boys in there parts and possesses terrific power in both fists.

Eddie Carlson pounded out a win over Jim Hickey last Thursday, but runs into stiffer competition when he mixes with Pete Simiatius of Rockford. Sam Fisher is another Rockford boy who has been prominent in Gloden Gloves circles.

The windup affair looks to be one of the best clashes of the year. Kid McReynolds and Gaynor are both looking forward to this chance to get inside the ring together. Both boys are tough and can punch.

At 8:30 Wade and Fisher will start off the entertainment. It is show Number Two, of a series to be sponsored by the Dixon Athletic Club.

You can't afford to be without the Dixon Telegraph's accident insurance. $1.25 will pay the premium for one year on a $1,000 policy.

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today—Lefty Grove pitched his 22nd victory of the year and his 13th in a row as the Athletics defeated the Senators 3 to 2 in the first game of a double-header. The A's also took the second increasing their lead to 12 games in the American League race.

Five Years Ago Today—Jack Dempsey agreed to September 22, as the date for his attempt to regain the world heavyweight title championship from Gene Tunney at Soldier Field, Chicago.

Ten Years Ago Today—Pitcher Shauts and Third Baseman Loran of the Cleveland Indians were released on option to Chattanooga as the Indians purchased Daniel Boone, right-handed pitcher from the Lookouts.

Petrolle Out Of Fight For Title
New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An injured elbow has cheated Billy Petrolle of his chance at the lightweight championship now held by Tony Canzoneri. The bout was scheduled for next Monday night at Madison Square Garden bowl. Jimmy Johnson, promoter, indicated the title bout would be re-scheduled as soon as Petrolle is again ready.

In 1804 the New Jersey legislature abolished slavery.

Tumbles Into Olympic Games

There will be a lot of young men tumbling into the Olympic games at Los Angeles, just as Eddie Gross is doing it here. Eddie is the 15-year-old ace tumbler of the Los Angeles A. C. winner of the American semi-final gymnastic trials for the Olympic team. He is gliding over some of his teammates.

CHARLIE GRIMM MADE MANAGER OF CUBS TODAY

Hornsby Fired Tuesday After Disappointing Showing As Boss

By WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Baseball's most famous Nomad, Rogers Hornsby, was on his way again today—deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

The announcement of Hornsby's dismissal came last night, with a suddenness so startling as to leave the baseball world agog—as much as when John McGraw, without warning, quit as manager of the New York Giants last June.

In making his announcement, William L. Veeck, president of the club, said, without elaboration: "It was to the best interests of the club that Hornsby retire at this time."

Released Outright
Not only is the Rajah, probably the stormiest figure in modern National League history, all done as manager of the club—the third to be placed in his charge—but he is no longer a member of the club, having also been released as a player.

Hornsby, manager of the Cubs since the last four days of the 1930 season, when he replaced Joe McCarthy, will be succeeded by Charlie Grimm, first baseman for the club since 1925. He also has been team captain.

Hornsby's only comment before leaving the club at Philadelphia McReynolds, 2b, said: "It was that Veeck had wanted to make the move and 'it's perfectly all right with me.' His salary, said to be $40,000 annually, will be paid to the end of his contract, which expires December 31, 1932.

Got Start in 1915
Almost from the time when he broke in with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1915, Hornsby's major league career was a succession of sensational incidents. His bow in major league baseball was inauspicious, but in 1920, he started on a six year batting rampage that notched him as one of the game's greatest right-handed batsmen.

Three times during the period he compiled averages of better than .400, and in 1924 he set a standard in hitting, .424, that has not been equalled. He became manager of the Cardinals for the 1926 season, and playing at second base led the club to its first National League title. The world series with the New York Yankees was one of the most thrilling. Hornsby's club won four victories to three.

Traded To Giants
After the triumph, Hornsby was traded to the New York Giants for Frankie Frisch and Pitcher Jimmy Ring. He was with the club just a year before he was traded to the Boston Braves. A few weeks after the start of the 1928 campaign opened he replaced Jack Slatery as pilot of the club.

In the autumn of 1928 he came to the Cubs in baseball's biggest deal. The late William Wrigley, Jr., determined to have a championship club, paid out $125,000 and five players, Freddie Macquire, Percy Lee Jones, Harry Siebold, Bruce Cunningham and Leggett, for Hornsby's services.

Then, just before the final series of the 1930 season, Mr. Wrigley, disappointed at the Cubs failure to win the title, dismissed Joe McCarthy and appointed Hornsby to the task of leading the Cubs.

Grimm, who assumes the management of the Cubs today, has been one of the game's greatest first basemen, one of its popular figures. He has been in the National League since 1920, first with the Pittsburgh Pirates and then with the Cubs. Grimm is 33 years old, and long has been known as a brilliant fielder and a timely hitter.

Cub Hurler Loses Fear of City's "Slickers"

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago—(AP)—There was a time when Guy Bush, the "Mississippi Mudcat" of Chicago Cubs pitching fame, feared city slickers.

But now he's a city slicker himself—the kind who makes his money and keeps it.

No grass has grown under Bush's feet since the day he was virtually pushed onto a train and sent to Chicago to pitch for the Cubs.

He has become one of the busiest men in baseball—and one of the shrewdest. Between his work as a baseball player he runs a gasoline filling station—and in the rest of his spare time he is scheming and planning other means of replenishing the Bush coffers.

Feared Gangsters
When a major league scout first discovered the "mudcat" he went into ecstasy. With the usual suave speech he told Bush of all the wonders of the big city, and Bush agreed to go to Chicago.

But en route he left the train admitting later he was "scared" to go to Chicago. He had "heard of gunmen and city slickers" and would rather not go. After a long argument, however, he was pushed on the train again and arrived as one of the greenest-looking rookies in years.

Now Walks in Dark
He stopped looking for well-lighted streets to do his walking, grew long sideburns and piloted a high-powered sports car through the heaviest traffic—meanwhile becoming one of the stars of the National League.

Now, when the Cubs are in town, you can find the "mudcat" almost any time at night at his filling station. As soon as the games are over, he rushes away to his business and stays there until the last car has come and gone.

Greets All Customers
In true business fashion he greets every customer, spins a yarn or two about baseball, gives 'em an "inside story" and they always come back. Result: he has one of the most prosperous filling stations—one of the flashiest—on Chicago's north side.

"Well, Mrs. Bush didn't raise any foolish children," he beamed one night when asked why he wasn't satisfied to live on his big baseball salary like other players.

"I know you are a hero one day and a bum the next in baseball. I'm too restless to loaf, and anyway this is the time to make some money."

Bush is one of the busiest pitchers ever to wear a Cub uniform. If he had his way he'd be pitching almost every day, and he usually is the first man to dash for the bullpen when his mates get into trouble.

Naturally Manager Rogers Hornsby shoos him away most of the time.

HOOVER'S WORK IN DEPRESSION IS COMMENDED

surely crash into panic and bring down the possible collapse and paralysis of American commercial life.

Stops Financial Disaster

Last summer, under his direction a great corporation was hastily formed outside of government, but with governmental approval, to secure immediately certain great eastern financial concerns. These concerns had western correspondents down to the smallest American town. The crash of these big concerns would inevitably pull down thousands of American banks. As a temporary measure the extragovernmental organization of the bankers was successful. Calamity temporarily was averted.

Then came Congress, and immediately the President set out to secure the adoption of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the greatest fiscal measure ever adopted by any government in all times. He was of course, opposed by those who disagreed with his plans, but he won and he won without storm and clamor. He won by insistence to members of Congress upon the terrific need of something to bolster the tottering banking system of the United States. If he had failed not a bank in America would be open today, and our commercial system would be paralyzed. Railroads would be in receiverships, insurance companies, the reliance of millions, would be in default. Such tragedy would be written in the pages of our history as it has never recorded before.

Fights To Balance Budget

When bank failures were checked, the President turned his attention to a tax measure which should raise the necessary revenue to balance the budget. Again he encountered a long hard fight. Here again his quiet, gentlemanly insistence upon the sheer right of the question won. The measure is not perfect. It contains many flaws. It is a human document, not divinely inspired. But it is the best that Congress could pass under any leadership. Moreover, it is a credit to the President's leadership that more errors and weaknesses did not creep into the measure.

The economy bill came next. And there the President's leadership again triumphed. In the inevitable clash of parliamentary government opinions honestly differ, and there is no right and wrong clearly, logically, incontrovertibly defined. Men move not in the black of wrong or the white of right, but in the gray of compromise. And in the compromise of government, necessary to pass the economy measure, the President's leadership always commanded the forces that were striving even blindly toward the desired end, the reduction of Federal taxes to meet the deflation of the American pocket book.

Wins Eight-Month Struggle

Last night the Senate passed the bill for emergency relief which goes to the President immediately. That and the home loan bill completed an eight-month program, a program under the leadership of a man who today, after the eight-month valiant struggle, has a right to be called strong. He has won more than any other President ever won in any other eight months in the history of this nation. He has won the constructive necessary legislation of a wide important scope and in some cases of an almost revolutionary character.

President Hoover's leadership is not vocal. He cannot address the American people. His strength is in conference. He cannot make public sentiment and thereby coerce Congress. Roosevelt and Wilson worked that way; so did Lincoln.

But Hoover's talent is a different talent. He can convince individual men, small coteries of men, groups that can be reached by his voice that are impressed by his sincerity, that are carried along by the reverse logic of this position. Hoover is a harder method than the method which Roosevelt took and Wilson adopted, more difficult than the method of Lincoln. Hoover cannot appeal over Congress to the masses.

President Stands Alone

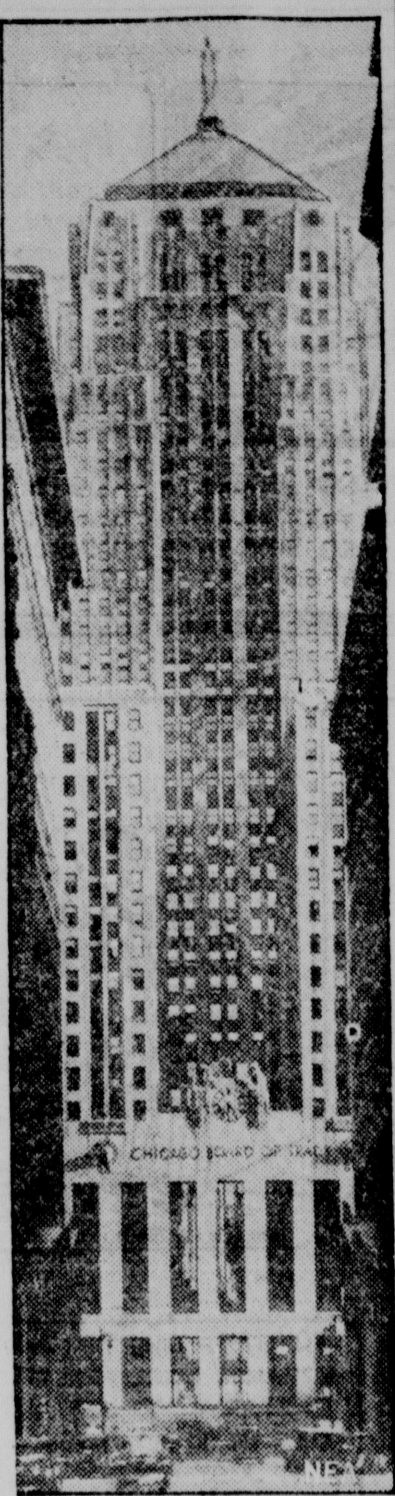

Hoover's method involves a struggle with individuals, with militant minorities, with mean and selfish groups that seek party or factional advantage. Moreover, Hoover's method leaves the public at the mercy of demagogues. It arouses no widespread enthusiasm. It does not back up a President in his hour of need as the Roosevelt method did, as Lincoln always could do as a last resort.

So Hoover stands alone. He has fought this good fight for eight long grinding months which have torn his heart out, wracked his body, tattered his patience, but he has won. Here at the end of the contest he may have to wait for history to give him laurel, but he has won it.

Whether or not one agrees with his program and of course it is a human program, not divinely inspired, nevertheless, it is an earnest, honest, intelligent, attempt, unselfishly, patriotically, and with the noblest purpose a man can pursue, to solve this problem of the depression. That it has prevented further collapse and dire calamity, no one can deny. For that the President deserves the gratitude of his country, the endorsement of the nation. His qualities are such that he cannot make the popular appeal. He has no quarion note, his emotional content is low. But none the less his leadership has been powerful and triumphant in the crisis.

Leadership Unquestionable

The Gazette has not always agreed with him. Time and again we have differed with him on minor points of administration and of policy. But no one who knows him, or, one who has watched with any degree of intelligence his career can question the quality of his leadership or the power of his personality.

America has had presidents more beloved, president more able to dramatize their causes with themselves, presidents more crafty in the game of politics, president who knew how to handle men by trading a little self-interest for the nation's larger good. But America has had no other president who has done in eight months such herculean work for the salvation of his country as Herbert Hoover has done since December, 1931. If he had done nothing else, if he were not a world leader in the cause of peace and international amity, his work with Congress, his leadership in this crisis would entitle him to a high place in history. Here is a rounded man, human, subject to the foibles of humanity, but strong, clean, brave and wise, a leader worthy of the times.

IN SOUTHERN SIBERIA, IS THE LARGEST FRESH WATER LAKE IN ASIA, AND THE DEEPEST FRESH WATER LAKE IN THE WORLD. DURING THE RUSSIAN JAPANESE WAR, A RAILROAD WAS LAID ACROSS ITS FROZEN SURFACE.

MANY PIGEON FANCIERS believe that aviators learned to loop the loop from observing the Tumbler pigeons in flight. The Tumbler does the loop exactly as an airplane does. There are several variations, however. Some birds make but one turn at a time, some two or three, while others put in fancy side slips. Then there are some which fly very high into the air and descend in a series of backward revolutions, sometimes making one too many and crashing against the earth?

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES

WHERE THEY HIT YOU
—AND HOW!

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of 20 daily articles explaining the new Federal taxes.)

By ROBERT TALLEY

NEA Service Writer

Are you an outdoor sportsman who likes the woods and waters? Hunter or fisherman or yachtsman, you must now pay tax to Uncle Sam to help him balance his budget under the new 1932 revenue law.

There is now a 10 per cent sales tax on firearms and all ammunition, a 10 per cent tax on fishing equipment of all kinds (except that used by commercial fishermen in the conduct of their business.)

If you use a boat more than 26 feet long, you must now pay a tax of 10¢ per foot for the USE of said boat; if you had rather be economical and paddle your own canoe, you will find a 10¢ per cent Federal tax on canoe paddles.

Except for the tax on the use of boats, all these taxes are manufacturers' excise taxes which the manufacturer adds to his sale price and which are usually passed on to the ultimate purchaser. The annual license tax on boats is $10 on those of from 28 to 50 feet in length, $40 on those from 50 to 100 feet, $100 from 100 to 150 feet, $150 from 150 to 200 feet, $200 from 200 feet and over.

This applies to the use of every kind of pleasure boat and is expected to yield $500,000 a year. Using very modest prices, let's see what a fisherman would pay in tax on a new outfit. Figure his rod and reel at $10, a half dozen casting baits at $5, a fly rod at $10, a reel for the same at $2, flies at $2 and tackle at $5. That's a total of $35, on which the tax is 10 per cent of the manufacturer's sale price, though many merchants collect it on the basis of the retail price.

The hunter pays about $25 for a double-barrel shotgun, on which the tax is 10 per cent. On a day's hunt, he may shoot a box of shells which cost him about $1 and on which the tax is also 10 per cent.

Apparently, Uncle Sam doesn't overlook the gangster since the tax on firearms specially includes machine guns, pistols and revolvers are exempt from this tax, since they are covered by an older tax applies to ammunition for all weapons. Treasury experts estimate the new tax on firearms and ammunition will yield $2,000,000 a year.

NEXT: Golf, tennis and other sporting goods.

ASHTON NEWS

By MRS. E. TILTON

ASHTON—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jennings of California are guests at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jennings.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Herwig were hosts to friends from Forrester at dinner on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moore of Morrison were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Krug and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moore who have recently returned from a visit to friends at Moorehead, Minn.

Among those from neighboring towns who attended funeral services held for the late Guy Lincoff were Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Reed, Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edgington, Franklin Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilton, Rochelle, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Zellar, Genoa.

Local druggists will attend the Tri-County picnic of druggists at Lawrence Park at Sterling on August 4.

Miss Jessie Emmerson who is a patient at Rockford hospital following a fall from the roof at the J. W. Hopes home of Chana, is reported as making satisfactory recovery.

Mrs. John Reitz and Mrs. Dora Sachs will be hostesses to the Ladies Aid Society of the St. John's Lutheran church on August 4.

Ashton folks who attended the Drummond reunion on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt, Miss Eva Hunt and Charles Hunt.

Isaac Trask, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shippe, Clarence Drummond, Miss Helen Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond, Mrs. Susan Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ogle.

Rev. C. D. Wilson has been a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Herrold of Chicago the past week.

Bible school will be held the coming week at the Washington Grove church, opening on Monday with a corps of train teachers under Miss Bertha Sanford.

Miss Edwina Berry who has been visiting at Dubuque has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hogan were Rockford visitors on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Attig are moving to their home, recently purchased on Evans Ave. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schuchter have moved to the Schuch property.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Thomas left Monday for a vacation to be spent in the east visiting with Mrs. Thomas' mother in Pennsylvania and an extensive motor trip.

Many Ashton folks enjoy themselves at the Canfield bridge on Kite Creek these days. The number which avail themselves of this pleasant spot grows and it is proving to be a most popular recreation spot.

Mrs. Elsie Grant and a group of some fifteen young girls camped at Canfield bridge for the past week. Programs for the season on 1932 and 33 were completed at the home of the president of Pine Rock Woman's club at her home in Chana on Monday. Many interesting speakers are scheduled and the calendar promises a most interesting and instructive season. The second Friday in September is the first meeting.

The annual reunion of the Drummond clan drew an attendance of more than 125 on Sunday at the Dugdale Grove on Kite Creek. Guests attended from Sterling, Belvidere, Dixon, Rochelle, Kings, Chana, Ashton, Oregon, Aurora, Rockford, Chicago, Palo Alto, California, Eldena, Monmouth, Macomb, Des Moines, Ia.; Guernsey, Ia. Accompanied by her son, Mrs. Frances Wigton, 82, came from Guernsey, Iowa, to attend the reunion. Mrs. Wigton keeps house for her brother, Newton Drummond who is her senior by several years. She is a guest of her cousins, Mrs. Janet Dugdale and Mrs. Mary Dailey for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hamilton of Macomb and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burritt of Monmouth, Mr. and Mrs. John Burritt and daughter, Miss Clea of Grantland, Iowa, were guests at the Dailey and Dugdale homes during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Canfield were attendants at the Rader tabernacle at Dixon on Sunday.

Clarence Engelkes and Gerdes Ludwig met with a serious accident while returning home on a motorcycle on Sunday evening. In a crash with a car the boys were thrown from the machine. Rushed to the Lincoln hospital it was necessary to amputate the leg of Clarence Engelkes and at present it is feared Ludwig is suffering from internal injuries. The accident occurred near the farm home of Charles Cross, one mile south of Chana. Clarence Engelkes is a brother to Harm Engelkes whose wife fell to her death from Castle Rock on July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Grover were hosts to Mr. and Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Evanson of Chicago on Sunday.

Showers early Monday morning and Tuesday have been a welcome relief to residents of the temporary Lincoln highway who have been living in a fog of dust since the closing of the highway to traffic. A count of motors passing the Woods corner on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 was made and 177 cars rounded the corner within the hour. The dust has no opportunity of settling and makes driving hazardous, many collisions have been narrowly averted while others were not so fortunate. A petition has been filed requesting that the stretch be oiled.

Plans for the Ashton Flower show have been rapidly maturing and a large exhibit and attendance is anticipated.

Miss Genese Oakes who has been a guest of her cousin, Miss Nadine Dailey of Dubuque, has returned home accompanied by her cousin.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, goes with her childhood sweetheart, STEVE SACCARELLI, to a popular supper resort, the Halcyon Club. MONA supports her invalid father, mother, little sister, KITTY, and her well-brother, BUD. Steve has been married about four years. He has returned, well dressed and prosperous. With so thought of prosperity, he has worn a gown and wavy hair to MONA which, after much indecision, she wears.

At the office that day MONA has met BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, but refused his invitation to dine with him. Bud Moran comes to the Halcyon Club and sees BUD HARKINS, the proprietor, who has underworld connections. MONA sees her brother, Steve, who is now a gangster. Steve tells her that he has been operating a diamond mine that Townsend inherited.

MONA and her friends leave the supper club HARKINS tells her that Steve has a diamond mine that Townsend inherited. MONA and her friends leave the supper club HARKINS tells her that Steve has a diamond mine that Townsend inherited.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

IT was, as Steve put it, "a man's sized supper." Steve had completed "a deal," he explained rather vaguely, and was in the height of good spirits.

The apartment, charming and attractive, met with even Lottie's rather rat approval. "Motion picture stuff!" was Steve's dismissal of the surroundings. The living room might almost have been planned for a skating rink. There was a fireplace, huge comfortable chairs, low tables, and trays.

Presently the table was whisked away and coffee served in front of the dancing flames. Barry and Steve lighted Turkish cigarettes brought from the American Virgin Islands. They spoke again of the Empress of Peru—that mammoth diamond found by Steve in the mine.

"It's one of the largest ever found in South America," Barry explained. "It's Steve's, of course, though he always speaks of it as 'ours.' He picked it up just as we might pick up a golf ball. It's worth a fortune. I'm still only a working man but your friend here has made his pile."

"Our pile," Steve said shortly. It was plain to be seen he was not enjoying this turn of the conversation.

"Yours," returned Barry evenly. It developed that the stone had been picked up on land decided to Steve by Barry during their first year at the mine in lieu of cash payment of salary. That made the Empress Steve's.

"It must be wonderful to dig diamonds right out of the ground," Lottie said dreamily.

STEVE rose, carelessly thrust aside a tapestry, twirled the knob of a safe and drew out a thin string of glittering stones which he held for a moment against his palm.

It was a chain of diamonds. The girls gasped in delight. Steve fitted the chain about MONA's neck and she rose too, cupping her hands in front of her as though she expected the precious stone to break.

Before the mirror she twirled and turned, murmuring excitedly. "This is the nearest I've ever been to a diamond necklace!"

"Old Steve collected those for you, MONA," Barry told her. "Every week or so he'd add another. Used to carry them around in a little chamois bag and every so often he'd count them."

MONA looked at Steve who stood near her, silent. The necklace, catching the lights, shone no more brightly than MONA's eyes.

Steve nodded. "Yes, they're yours, MONA."

She flushed, started to speak and her eyes met Lottie's. Then MONA laughed suddenly. "Why, how silly for me to think—even for a moment—that I could take them!" She unfastened the catch and let the necklace dangle from her hand, holding it out to Steve.

Barry found himself wishing MONA could have accepted the jewels while at the same time he understood it was impossible.

"Show us The Empress, Steve," MONA said to hide her confusion. Steve's face lighted. He raised his eyes and for a moment looked thoughtful.

"I'd love to see a fortune rolled up in one stone the size of a peanut," Lottie sighed.

STEVE said nothing and Barry put in briskly, "There aren't many like this one! Steve keeps it

"Risky, isn't it?" MONA asked quietly.

"Risky? Sure. What isn't risky nowadays? It seems," Steve's voice became suddenly bitter, "that it's even risky to offer a gift to an old friend. If it hadn't been for you, MONA, those diamonds would never have been mined. I wouldn't have finished the job without you to think about."

"Save the necklace for a wedding present!" Barry suggested hastily. "Maybe she'll wear it then."

"Will you, MONA?"

Something in Steve's voice frightened the girl. "Yes," she answered. "I will, if only you don't stipulate whom I shall marry when the time comes."

"I'll leave that to you," Steve said gravely.

"But about the Empress," Barry reminded. "Even I don't know where he keeps that."

"The Empress? Oh, yes," Steve straightened. "Tell you what I did with it. Remember, I know a thing or two about crooks. There was a man in the old gang named Bridge Hayden. He was a 'dip'—used to steal jewels right from the necks of women who came into the supper club. Time after time police would be called in but no one could ever find the diamonds on Bridge. He'd sit there drinking ginger ale and maybe eating a sandwich before a bowl of cracked ice. The table would be cleared right under the eyes of the police and there were the jewels, hidden in the bowl of ice!"

"The club?" Barry asked in a puzzled tone. "Are we going there?"

For answer Steve shook his head mysteriously and showed Barry into the apartment. "Do you think I'd have let that girl go home alone if I thought her mother was really ill?"

Rapidly he examined the outer door of the apartment.

"Then you said that—" Barry began.

Steve nodded. "Exactly!" He pointed to the door. "Moran took an impression of the lock while he was waiting. He'll be back because he thinks we're going out. Are you game for a little reception party?"

"They're coming for the Empress, Steve!"

Steve nodded. "They are! But don't worry about that." Looking around Steve rubbed his hands together. "Now," he chuckled, "we'll show Mr. Buck Harkins we're ready for him!"

HE and Lottie whirled into a dance while MONA and Barry sat watching. The dance ended and the four had a few hands of bridge. The game was going merrily when the telephone rang. Steve answered to return with a serious face.

He looked at MONA sympathetically. "It's for you," he said seriously. "Bud's downstairs and wants you to come home. He has a cab waiting. Said he'd rather Barry and I didn't come along."

MONA's face had drained of color as she arose.

"I'll go with you," Lottie said, disappearing into the room where they had left their coats. She was back with MONA's wraps before the other girl had gathered herself together sufficiently to speak.

"Don't worry," Barry begged as he helped MONA into her coat.

Bud appeared then at the door of the apartment. "It's nothing really," he said. "Ma just felt bad and wanted you home. I'll get a doctor if you say so. I don't think it's anything serious, though."

The three stood waiting for the elevator.

"MONA," Steve said, "I'm sorry Bud thinks we shouldn't go with you. Telephone us, will you, when you get home. We'll be here. He paused uncertainly and then added, "Or wait—we're due at the club. Telephone us there if you don't hear from us."

MONA agreed. The elevator arrived and the anxious little group dispersed.

"The club?" Barry asked in a puzzled tone. "Are we going there?"

DEVINE STRONG CANDIDATE FOR MINORITY BOSS

Dixon Representative's Chances Considered To Be Excellent

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Springfield, Ill., August 3.—(UP)—Although it will not be until next January that the next regular session of the Illinois General Assembly will convene and there is seemingly a general election in November to be disposed of, considerably rivalry talk among Democrats as to who will be that party's respective leaders in the two branches of the legislature, has already begun.

With Michael L. Igoe, Chicago, former minority leader, out of the picture because he chose to seek the party gubernatorial nomination and lost and therefore was not a candidate for the legislature, interest in selecting his successor is centered on several candidates.

Foremost among these is John P. Devine, Dixon, veteran member. The tall and husky Representative from Lee county appears almost a certainty for the post despite the fact that he was most active in supporting the candidacy of Igoe against the state organization which backed the successful nominee, Judge Henry Horner.

Others mentioned in addition to Devine are Frank Ryan, Chicago, Arthur Roe, Vandalia; James T. Burns, Kankakee; B. S. Adamowski, Chicago; and John P. Boyle, Chicago.

Has Short Sketch
Devine, who probably has one of the shortest biographical sketches in the state Blue Book, has been a member of the House of Representatives for ten consecutive terms. He was minority leader in two sessions, the fifty second and fifty third. He is 54 years old, married and a lawyer.

Roe appears to be Devine's only formidable downstate opponent for the honor, which if the Democrats were to win control of the House would mean the one selected would be the speaker. Roe, like Devine, is a lawyer. Again like Devine, he has served ten consecutive terms in the legislature.

Both were active lieutenants for Igoe, when the latter headed the minority, with Devine perhaps bearing the brunt of the support for Igoe, possibly because of his genialness and ability to play the diplomat, albeit he was fiery enough at psychological times.

Roe's particular asset for gaining the honor lies in the fact that he went the route for the state organization while Devine supported Igoe.

Sure of Election
At this time Devine has the advantage of knowing that regardless of the outcome, the November election will not interfere with his election to the House as he comes from one of those legislative districts where nomination in the primary is equivalent to election.

With Roe it is different. There are four candidates, two Republicans and two Democrats, seeking election from the Fortieth Senatorial district which includes Vandalia, Roe's home town.

As only three can be elected it means that one of the four must lose out. The district being normally Republican, the low Democrat would be apt to lose through Democrats are looking to a statewide landslide to win victory in all contested districts.

Burns the only other downstate given any mention for the House leadership, is a former Federal judge, he having served on the district bench at Chicago for a short time during the regime of Woodrow Wilson. He also is a former county judge. He was most active at the last session, most of his effort being directed at gaining legislation reducing government costs.

The other three are Chicagoans with good legislative records, but whose chances of being chosen are lessened by the fact that it is generally considered that a downstate member must be chosen this year.

W. C. T. U. Notes

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday, August 5th, at the home of Mrs. Charles Weybright. This is the annual business meeting, with election of officers, also the annual picnic supper and one of the "red-letter days" to which every W. C. T. U. member looks forward to. There will be a scramble dinner. Mrs. Ira Buck will be leader of the program and each one present will be expected to contribute briefly to the program, with an item of news, a poem, a song or a stunt of interest. The roll call response will be: "Name Your Favorite Dish."

Every member is urged to be present and if possible bring a friend. The usual rules for the picnic dinner will be carried out.

Program at Camp Ground

The program at the camping ground Sunday afternoon drew a large crowd. Some splendid addresses were given concerning the General Conference held in May.

Next Sunday at 3 o'clock the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Peoria, Dr. W. E. Shaw, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Shaw is a very popular preacher in Illinois and came within a few votes of being elected Bishop at the recent General Conference. A quartette from Illinois Wesleyan College will be on this program.

HE'S A REAL HERO

Los Angeles — If there are any medals worthy of the heroic deed of Mrs. Isobel Jones' husband, he ought to collect them with no trouble. He was walking with his wife when a hit-and-run driver nearly ran into her. Seeing the car coming, the 65-year-old husband jumped in front of his wife, hurled her to safety, and was struck himself. He will recover, it is said.

FLYING TARGET

London — England's Royal Air Force is training its airplane gunners by means of a flying target. The target is towed behind a speeding airplane. It is in the form of a "wind sock" commonly used to show wind direction at the speed target and fire at it. Holes puncturing the target register hits.

AMERICANS TAKE FISMES

On Aug. 3, 1918, advancing American troops occupied Fismes, in the Marne sector of the western front, to climax a day of great progress for the allies on a 45 mile front.

Virtually the entire Aisne-Vesle front between Soissons and Rheims was now in the hands of the allies. During the day, French and American forces occupied more than 100 square miles of territory.

German losses during the great battle which had been raging nearly three weeks were believed higher than in any similar period during the war.

Equipment taken during the day by French and American soldiers was valued at more than $5,000,000.
